ITEMS OF ALL SORTS.

A young man in Boston has trained a monkey to ride a bicycle.
No person under 16 years of age is allowed to enter a theater or tavern in Heligoland.

Michigan contains about 4,545 lakes and about 50,000 streams, and is considered a paradise for anglers.

Passengers on the open cars of Boston, for whom there are no seats, are not allowed to stand or obstruct the view of those who are seated.

A submarine tunnel to connect Scotland and Ireland is under consideration by the British government. The estimated cost is $35,000,000.

The champion sneezer is J. E. Daugherty, of Alexandria, Va. While leaning back in his chair he recently sneezed so hard that he dislocated his spine.

John Tannis, of Sheridan, Newaygo county, Mich., has nine sons grown to manhood. They all marched in a body to the polls and voted at the recent spring election.

Superstition in Persia, about 100 years ago led to the adoption of a queer remedy for cholera. The sufferer rolled a leaf of the Koran into a pill, and swallowed it.

Howard Smith, a lad of ten years, of Schreinersville, Pa., became overheated while chasing chickens in his father's barn, and paralysis and blindness resulted, followed by death.

A musical bicycle has been invented by a man in Presburg, Austria. The motion of the wheel grinds out a tune like a hand organ, and the rider rolls along to the strains of delightful harmony.

STAMPS AND COLLECTORS.

Newfoundland is to have a new issue of stamps to consist of seven denominations.

England will not permit stamp catalogues to contain illustrations of English stamps, but it does permit illustrated albums made in Germany to be sold in England. The stamp dealers think this inconsistent, and so it is.

An enterprising firm of Geneva lithographers have been doing an excellent business in counterfeiting stamps. Recently they had the audacity to attempt to copyright these imitations, but the Swiss government would not let them go that far.

Some of the utterances in relation to philately are very amusing. A writer comments upon auction sales of stamps, and objects vigorously to them, on the score that the prices realized are not up to catalogue values. "To-day," he says, solemnly, "one can buy almost any stamp he wants at from one-half to two-thirds of the catalogue price." It would seem to be apparent that this is proof that catalogue prices are too high, but the writer does not see it in that light.

MEDITERRANEAN HOUSE RENTS.

Highest at Gibraltar and Lowest on the Island of Malta.

In no place on the surface of the globe is rent so high as at Gibraltar, the reason being, says the Philadelphia Inquirer, that the geographical position of the town precludes the possibility of its being extended in any direction. A long, narrow strip of what was once sea beach is alone available for building purposes. All the rest is precipitous rock.

Upon this narrow parapet, in some cases less than 100 yards in width, are crowded the homes of 25,000 people. As much as ten dollars a week is asked and obtained for the use of one small room, and this, too, in a place where the normal rate of wages is quite ten per cent less than in America. Naturally, the overcrowding is fearful, and, the water supply being scarce and intermittent, cleanliness of living, as we understand it, is almost impossible.

No wonder that in the old days the plague and the cholera ravaged the "rock" with a virulence unknown in the filthy and pestilential cities of the far east.

In Malta, on the other hand, house rent is ridiculously cheap. Anywhere outside of Valetta an excellent seven-room house can be had for $15 a year, while rates and taxes are unknown. The houses are built entirely of the cream-colored stone of which the island is composed, and which is so soft that it can be cut with a saw into blocks or slabs of any desired size or shape. So, while the Maltese builder is digging up his foundation, he is at the same time getting out the material for his walls, his flooring and his roof.

In New York a short white baby was born in jail. Its mother was being tried for murder. Every womanly heart gives a thrill of sympathy at the thought of the blight upon the poor little baby's life. But a baby need not be born in jail to be unfortunate. Any baby which is not welcomed into this world with loving hearts and ready hands is unfortunate.

Any mother who is physically weak and incapable of bestowing a healthy constitution upon her baby may darken its future with weakness and disease.

A prospective mother ought to insure her baby's welfare by every means that Nature and science afford to keep her physical powers up to the very highest point. Every expectant mother ought to know and avail herself of the strengthening and re-enforcing properties of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives health and endurance to the delicate organs concerned in motherhood. Taken early during the period of expectancy, it makes the coming of baby perfectly safe and comparatively easy. It makes the mother strong and cheerful, and gives health and natural vigor to the child.

It is the only medicine of its kind devised for weak and delicate women by an educated, experienced physician.

For nearly 30 years Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. His thousand-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser" contains advice and suggestions which every woman ought to read. A paper-bound copy will be sent absolutely free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound for 31 stamps.

A sure and permanent cure for constipation is Dr. Pierce's Pellets. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a mild cathartic.

E. Katz, Agent.THE COAL MINERS' STRIKE AND DEBS.

The latest news from the center of disturbance indicates that the strike of the coal miners is nearing the end. The Pittsburg operators made a proposition to give a straight price of 65 cents a ton to continue until the end of the year, at which time a joint meeting of miners and operators shall determine the rate to be paid thereafter. The representatives of the mine workers agreed to recommend the proposition to the miners at a convention to be held next week and it is believed that it will be accepted. If it is the miners will resume work and there will be no further necessity, at least for the present, of invoking the aid of the courts to prevent men from peaceably assembling to discuss their grievances and consult as to the best means of securing living wages for their labor.

The right of capital, that is of men who have money invested or money to invest, to meet and consult as to the best methods of making the investment, has never been questioned by even the most radical of labor agitators. As the poor man's labor is his only capital he should be allowed the privileges that are accorded capital. He knows that rich men are permitted to meet when and where they please to discuss the rates they shall charge on transportation lines, the wages they shall pay employees and the prices they shall charge for commodities which they control. He knows that the prices of sugar, flour, coal, oil and many other of the necessities of the household are fixed by trusts and that the courts do not enjoin them from meeting for such purposes. Knowing this he believes that he and his fellows, who have only their labor to dispose of, should have the right to meet and consult as to methods of getting living wages for their labor. When that right is denied them and, without trial by jury, they are inhibited by courts from meeting peaceably they believe they are denied privileges guaranteed them by the constitution and cannot be expected to have very much respect for those who administer the law.

The court which by injunction put a padlock on the lips of Eugene V. Debs made him a martyr in the eyes of labor and the idolized champion of its cause in the United States, and in the opinion of millions of hard working, horny-handed sons of toil he is the greatest, biggest man in the United States and head and shoulders above any court that enjoins him from exercising the right of addressing his fellow citizens on any subject of public interest.

SUPERVISORS IN JEOPARDY.

The laws of California require the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco to fix the water rates for the year at the regular meeting of the board in February of each year. The board elected last November and which took office last January did not fix the water rates in February, but performed that duty later in the year and to the satisfaction of the water company. The people were very much dissatisfied with the rates and it was openly charged that a majority of the board had been "seen" by the company. However that may be G. K. Fitch instituted proceedings in Judge Wallace's Court against the board for the purpose of ousting the members for not performing their duty as required by law. Two of the members, who were not in the ring, pleaded that they had endeavored to have the rates fixed in February and had the minutes of the board produced in court to show that one of them had made a motion to that effect, which was seconded by the other, but that the motion was voted down by the majority. The other defendants filed separate answers, and six of them asked for a change of venue, alleging bias and prejudice on the part of Judge Wallace, but the Court denied the motion. A motion for a trial by jury was also denied on the ground that questions of law only are involved, and the trial commenced.

At the trial, Clark Russell read the minutes of the meetings in February, which showed that the water rates had not been fixed in that month and the case was continued until Monday.

There is much feeling against the Board of Supervisors in San Francisco. It is charged the "solid eight," comprising a majority of the board, sold out to the Spring Valley Company and fixed the rates to suit that corporation. Whether this charge can be proved is problematical, but that the board fixed the rates to suit the company there is no doubt whatever.

Twelve bodies have been recovered from the Sunshine mine of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company as a result of the explosion of coal dust in the mine. The force of the explosion had completely crushed the bones in the bodies so that the remains were merely masses of flesh. Timbers twenty-two inches through were broken like pipe-stems.

Severe drouth is reported in various provinces of Russia. Winter wheat cannot be planted and stock is feeding on dry fodder, which is scarce. The peasants are greatly alarmed as to the future.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Wheat held firm in San Francisco yesterday. December being quoted at 1.39 and barley at 93 1/4.

David Davidson, who murdered his wife at Randsburg May 19th was held for murder yesterday. It was feared for a time that he would be lynched.

Judge Hayte, the nominee of the Silver-Republican Convention in Colorado for Justice of the Supreme Court, has announced that he will not accept the St. Louis platform.

The express car on the south-bound train was robbed near Des Moines, N. M., Friday night by four men. From five to fifteen thousand dollars was taken. The robbers have not been apprehended.

Two men and a horse were killed near Monongahela, Pennsylvania, yesterday by an explosion of nitro-glycerine, while crossing a bridge. The bridge was also so badly damaged that it cannot be used.

F. H. Parker, President of the Produce Exchange Bank of New York, and his wife were drowned yesterday in Chain Lake in the Adirondack mountains. They were sailing on the lake. Their bodies have not been recovered.

An explosion of natural gas at Broad Ripple near Indianapolis killed five men and seriously injured twenty or thirty others. A part of the town took fire and several buildings were destroyed. Indianapolis sent engines and physicians.

The St. Louis and San Francisco limited express from Galveston was derailed twenty miles west of St. Louis on Friday night. The baggage car, smoker and two day coaches were thrown from the track. No passengers were hurt, but three tramps were seriously injured.

The striking miners at the De Armitz mines do not look with favor on the 65-cent rate per ton. It is thought that there will be considerable opposition. The men marched to the mine as usual and tried to persuade the miners to stop work. At the Plum Creek camp a large gain was made in the strikers' ranks.

In West Virginia the miners have little hope of an advance in wages, but will be governed by the action of the National Board.

At Clarkburg, Ohio, trouble is feared, as the operators are making strenuous efforts to start the mines.

Robert A. Magee, a farmer living about two miles from Braintree, Minn., was captured by two masked men, blindfolded and led to his house. There he was held by one of the men while the other overpowered Magee's aged mother and bound her to a chair. The robbers then threatened to burn the house above their victims' heads unless Magee gave up his money, which they claimed to know he had in hiding. Magee gave them $1,500. Upon leaving they told him that they would consider the money a loan and it would be returned in November, if he made no effort to discover their identity and that one of them was a businessman and had to have the money to save him from bankruptcy, and a note would be sent to Magee by mail.

AMERICAN FORESTS.

The Finest That Ever Grew on the Earth.

The forests of America, however slighted by man, must have been a great delight to God; for they were the best He ever planted. The whole continent was a garden, and it seemed to be favored from the beginning above all the other wild parks and gardens of the globe. To prepare the ground, it was rolled and sifted in seas with infinite loving deliberation and forethought, lifted into the light, submerged and warmed over and over again, pressed and crumpled into folds and ridges, mountains and hills, subsided with heaving volcanic fires, plowed and ground and sculptured into scenery and soil with glaciers and rivers—every feature growing and changing from beauty to beauty, higher and higher. And in the fullness of time it was planted in groves, and belts, and the largest, most varied, most fruitful, and most broad, exuberant, manifold forests, with beautiful trees, in the world. Bright seas made its border with wave embroidery and icebergs; magnificent deserts were outspread in the middle of it, mossy tundras on the north, savannas on the south, and blooming prairies and plains; while lakes and rivers shone through all the vast forests and openings alike, and happy birds and beasts gave delightful animation. Everywhere, everywhere over all the blessed continent, there was beauty, and melody, and kindly, wholesome, foodful abundance. —John Muir, in Atlantic

One Day on "the Force" and Then He Was Up to a Vocation.

John Throckston wanted to be a detective. He came all the way from Fredericktown, Mo., to gratify his ambition. He had evidently been a student of "Long-haired Harry, the lynx-eyed sleuth," or some other such hero of yellow-back literature, and was patting himself after his ideal of the genuine sleuth when he called at police headquarters to file his application.

The bright young man who record the daily happenings in police circles were attracted by his peculiar make-up, and determined to have some fun at his expense.

"Are you acquainted with Willie?"

was the first question put to him. "Willie" is a half-gallon tin bucket, painted a glowing red, upon which is inscribed in big white letters: "Don't let Willie's spirits droop." It costs but ten cents to keep Willie's spirits up to the top notch, and the applicant for a place on the detective force was taxed accordingly.

Having made himself familiar with "Willie" the applicant was then examined as to his height, weight and age. Then one of the boys remarked that "Willie" was spiritless, and the applicant was told to dig into his pocket again for the coin that supplied them. While the applicant was attending to "Willie" the boys had prepared the following unique note to the physicians at the dispensary: "Whereas, There appeared this day before us Jay Throckston student of epiphany, desirous of entering the service, and, whereas, we have concluded that he is absolutely void of hoponitiveness or wit, we desire that you give him a thorough going over and permit the usualogy to meander."

Armed with this document the fellow called at the dispensary. The doctors saw the joke and, after decorating him with dabs of iodine, sent him back to headquarters. It happened that upon his return the boys were busy, and, in order to get rid of him, fixed up a note to Capt. Reynolds.

They were a good soldier and did not return until the next day, when he reported that "Willie" was still at large and asked leave to go on a visit to his home, living in De Soto.

A document entitled "Leaf of Absinthe" was given him, together with a note to the conductor of any old train, requesting that the bearer be permitted to walk to De Soto unless he put up the coin for a ride and, in that case, that he be given free water, fresh air and other similar conveniences free of charge. This was the last seen of the would-be detective.

Governor of Missouri Remembers the Man Who Once Saved His Life.

"I have appointed Jerome S. Barman coal oil inspector of Springfield for a term of two years," was the simple announcement made by Gov. Stephens, of Missouri, a few days since to a number of newspaper reporters. Back of this, however, is a story.

The new inspector of the "Queen City of the Ozarks" saved the governor's life once and is now rewarded by appointment to a good office. It was 25 years ago, and the future governor and Barman were boys in the quiet, staid old town of Boonville, Mo. They were like other boys of the world over, and one warm afternoon in June they played "hooky" and went to bathe in the cool waters of a deep creek that flowed into the Missouri river back of the Kemper school. Stephens couldn't "swim a lick," and venturing into the water over his head was in a fair way to drown, when young Barman swam to his rescue. After much difficulty he got his unconscious burden to shore and revived him.

Following the usual course of human events, the ways of the two boys diverged. One prospered in business and politics, the other became a citizen of Springfield, where he, too, was fairly prosperous. When the time came that there was a vacancy in the office to which he was recently appointed, Barman applied for it, and the governor without hesitation gave it to him.

"It is the only thing that he has ever asked at my hands," said the governor, "and he is in every way worthy of it."

HUSBAND AND WIFE IN RUSSIA.

Their Relations Marked by Every Evidence of Mutual Courtesy.

"This is a curious custom you Americans have of referring to your wives by their husbands' names," observed Glanvock Kaplon, an intelligent Russian traveler, says the St. Louis Republic. "I suppose the American holds his wife in as high esteem as the Russian holds his, but if at home I should speak of my better half as Mr. Kaplon my friends would at once conclude that my domestic relations were not as pleasant as they should be, and that I was thinking of a legal separation. When I first heard an American speak of his wife as Mrs. Jones, for example, I felt almost like presuming on my acquaintance by intruding into his private affairs and asking him what the trouble was at home. Yet I soon learned that the custom was universal over here, but still I cannot get used to it. My wife is the plain, blunt way I speak in Russia of the lady who, I suppose, I would have to call Mrs. Kaplon in polite society in America. In some of the more fashionable circles of St. Petersburg this American social custom has been adopted, though I was told by a prominent government official not long ago that the czar disapproved of it."

Makes Queen Shed Tears.

According to an "absolutely unimpeachable authority," a writer in the Westminster Gazette relates how the Irish song: "The Wearing of the Green" was recently sung in Windsor castle. The queen, it appears, requested a young Irish lady who was visiting the castle to sing an Irish song. She went to the piano and sang "The Wearing of the Green" and, according to the story told, her majesty was touched by the pathos of the song and burst into tears. The writer continues: "Ah!" said my eminent informant, "you little know the depth of the queen's sympathy for the Irish and the tenderness of her heart."

Nice Girls.

Of Matthew Arnold as a school-examiner the author of "Pages from a Private Diary" has this to say: "Arnold's reports are very good reading, but his methods of examination were sometimes highly poetical. I remember a tale told by a fellow-inspector of a class of girl-pupil teachers that he asked Arnold to examine for him. Arnold gave them all the 'excellent' mark. 'But,' said the other inspector, 'surely they are not all as good as they can be; some must be better than others.' 'Perhaps that is so,' replied Arnold, 'but then, you see, they are all such nice girls.'"

DEATH OF COLONEL STANLEY
A Respected Citizen of Reno Passes Away.

Colonel Nathan M. Stanley passed over the dark river yesterday afternoon a little after 1 o'clock. For several weeks he has been very ill and, notwithstanding that science and loving hearts and hands have exerted every means that could be thought of to prolong the fast fleeting hours of his life, the messenger came and his life's work of over three score years and ten was ended. Colonel Stanley has been a highly respected citizen of Reno for several years, always taking a lively interest in the general affairs of the community and progression of the town. He served Washoe county as an efficient member of the Legislature at the session of 1895, working earnestly for the welfare of the State and the county he in part represented. He was also an earnest member of the School Board of this district, always taking an active interest in all school matters.

During the War of the Rebellion he served honorably as Lieutenant-Colonel of the Twenty-first Regiment, Maine Volunteers, being in active service in the Gulf campaigns, also in the Mississippi Valley and at the close of the war was tendered a commission in the Regular Army, but declined. Colonel Stanley was an exemplary citizen, a kind neighbor and an affectionate father. He leaves four daughters, Mrs. A. M. Ward, Mrs. M. S. Palmer and the Misses Stanley, also other relatives and a host of friends to mourn his loss.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. Palmer on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends and acquaintances are respectfully invited to attend.

Circus's Popular Poplars
Once, of the popular Carson Exchange, opposite the railroad depot at Carson, has the finest row of Lombardy poplars surrounding his popular hotel to be found in the town. They are 97 feet high and as straight as the North Pole. His numerous patrons are at home beneath those poplar shades, and sleep with the U. S. Mint containing six million silver dollars only about a hundred feet away.

Here's where you change cars for Tahoe, Plumas, Toiyah or Toiyah if you choose, and in the finely equipped hotel saloon you can read all about the happy land of Klondike without having to go there. Just read Circo's advertisement in another column.

John Sparks shipped a herd of his fine Hereford cattle to Sacramento yesterday to be exhibited at the State Fair. There were about thirty head in the drove. Five of the big fellows were bailed in from Mr. Sparks' ranch on trucks, they being so heavy that it was not thought advisable to drive them into town for fear of injuring them.

John F. McDonnell was elected secretary of the Virginia Miners' Union. This being the only salaried office in the organization, there was a lively contest. The polls were open from 9 a. m. to 7 p. m., and 249 votes were cast. Jack Walsh was the opposing candidate.

The Board of County Commissioners will meet to-morrow. Parties having business before the Board should govern themselves accordingly.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK

The San Jose Sentinel Again.
(Newspaper Bulletin No. 24.)

To-day I visited an apple and plum orchard located in town. Though the purpose of the visit was not strictly entomological, I was forced to notice the very severe effect of the San Jose scale upon both fruit and trees.

The first trees observed, seemed very free from infestation but finally a portion of the orchard was reached where the trees, bark, leaves and fruit were literally alive with this, the worst fruit pest in the United States. The trees were large and otherwise seemingly in a healthy condition. The bark, however, presented the peculiar ashy gray appearance characteristic of this disease. Not only on the trunk and lower limbs was this to be observed, but also, on the upper branches extending to the ultimate twigs. Thus when this year's leaves and fruit formed they quickly became infested by young insects whose parents occupy the adjacent twigs. Infested leaves were brown spotted particularly on the upper surface, each of the spots bearing near the centre the usually light colored scale of an insect.

Light colored apples were either red-dish-purple spotted, or from the proximity of the insects, wholly covered with this color, thus forming most conspicuous evidence of the presence of the disease.

In many instances the leaves were dead these frequently forming a part of individual clusters. In several instances badly infested limbs had succumbed to the disease after the formation of the leaves and fruit. These leaves were shriveled and brown, the fruit withered, cracked and under-sized, yet able to support thriving colonies of great numbers of insects.

The plum trees, a row of which adjoined a row of infested apple trees, presented much the same appearance. The fruit did not show the effects of the disease so severely as did the apples. Yet in nearly every instance the half of the fruit surrounding the stem was thickly covered with the scales of the insects which stood out in bold relief against the background of dull blue skin of the fruit.

At this season we have the disease presented in its most conspicuous form when its very serious nature should be thoroughly impressed upon the minds of those whom it affects. Furthermore the coming Winter season when the trees are bare of leaves and in a dormant condition is the proper time for the application of remedies which demand some previous preparation.

Thus it is a most appropriate season for the consideration of what steps are to be taken towards the control of this dread disease which, if neglected, will in all probability destroy a large part of the fruit trees of this valley within the near future.

Situation at Dyea and Skagway.
The steamer Farallon arrived at Port Townsend, Wash., Wednesday night, six days from Dyea and Skagway. The officers of the steamer are telling interesting stories of the condition of affairs at both landings. They say that people are slowly but surely crossing the divide and the road for ten miles up the canyon is strewn with provisions, discarded baggage and dead horses. Less than one thousand people are on the beach at Dyea, and all make efforts to get across the divide as soon as they are landed. At Skagway things are different. There are between five and six thousand people at that place. Less than fifty men have succeeded in getting across White pass and hundreds have given up trying to cross until spring. The steamer officers say rain has fallen there continuously for eight days, and that it is utterly impossible to cross. All kinds of business is flourishing. Many are selling outfits for little or nothing, while others are buying everything offered for sale and using the same to stock general retail stores, which they are setting up on the beach. A saloon keeper at Dyea is buying flour, emptying it in a heap in a tent and selling the empty sacks at 75 cents each. The Farallon officers deny that a man was killed at Skagway for stealing, but say that in case of theft death would be the portion of the person so engaged.

An Extensive Business for Sale.
On account of various matters in which he is interested demanding so much of his attention, R. H. Cowles finds that he cannot devote the proper amount of time to his Grocery Business at Wadsworth and hereby announces he will sell the building at Wadsworth in which is located his General Merchandise Store, the lot on which it stands, a large fire-proof cellar, the stock of goods on hand, the good will, etc. The goods are all fresh, nothing shop worn. The business is a prosperous one and the only reason for selling is to enable Mr. Cowles to give all of his time to other industries in which he is engaged. Wadsworth is the best business town in Nevada to-day and this opening offers a splendid opportunity for some good man to locate in Wadsworth. Call on R. H. Cowles at his store. aug26mo1
